5 reasons why you should GO TO the Fall Fair

The food

Is amazing. And it helps you make the connection between farm and fork in a way that little else can. Bring your kids, of course. They should know that food isn't grocery-store magic.

It's a great place to go for a date

Hay isn't just for horses! Seriously, though, what can melt a heart better than a lamb, a bunny or a perfect flower arrangement?

The entries

It's more than giant carrots and jars of jam.

Sure, you can talk to real farmers about why the cucumbers in your garden leave you feeling inadequate and their's are monsters. But there's also art, photography, flowers, and much more.

The animals

"It's so fluffy, I'm gonna die!" Channel your inner Agnes.

The entertainment

How many banjos can you count? Yes, there will be banjos, for sure, but there are a ton of talented performers who take the stage at the Fall Fair, and the setting is so relaxed.

5 reasons why you should ENTER the Fall Fair

Inspire your kids

Show your kids that they can be producers, not just consumers. Look through the list in this booklet. You'll be surprised by what you could enter!

Because Fluffy is so cute!

Your rabbit/chicken/piglet is the best! You should have a blue ribbon to prove it.

You have a giant cucumber

Your worked hard on your garden this year, and now it's time to show off, pick up a few ribbons, and maybe even a little cash!

Grandma's recipe

It has never let you down. Turn that recipe into some ribbons by entering your best baking or canning into one of the many categories on the following pages.

Unleash your art

Showing off your art can be nerve-wracking. The Fall Fair is a safe, gentle place to start.
